? ILLUSTRATIVE

All figures from the Assumptions Register; UK price/revenue share unset.

BOTTOM LINE UP FRONT

The headline shape: a lean launch reaching ~30 customers and ~£48k revenue-share in Year 1 (base), scaling to a few hundred customers and ~£350–400k by Year 3, self-funding, off a small loan — with wide but survivable downside. Attractive shape, honestly illustrative inputs.

What the numbers say

- Capital-light: launch on a Start Up Loan, not a large raise.

- Recurring & compounding: per-seat SaaS revenue accumulates with retention.
- Wide range: early-stage uncertainty is real — hence the scenario view, not a single number.

The honesty line

STATUS OF THESE NUMBERS

These are illustrative scenario outputs driven by explicit assumptions, two of which (UK price, revenue share) are unset pending the CEO. They show the business can work across a plausible range — which is the honest claim to make pre-pilot, and a stronger one than a false-precision forecast.

Implication

The highlights support a modest loan now and an equity conversation later, once pilot data replaces the assumptions.
