BOTTOM LINE UP FRONT

The plan: localise a proven Polish installer-CRM into the UK via a lean, founder-led operation, winning the underserved small-installer segment on proof and per-seat pricing, funded initially by a UK Start Up Loan. The opportunity is real and the product is proven; the two open variables are the deal structure and UK pricing, both CEO-gated.

1. Business model (canvas, condensed)

Block	This venture
Value proposition	Proven, multi-trade installer platform, priced per seat for growing firms
Customer segments	MCS solar/heat-pump installers, 10–50 staff (Pack 06)
Channels	Free MCS-database outreach; trade shows; RECC/HIES (Pack 08)
Revenue	Per-seat SaaS (UK price ?); split with RRUP per deal structure (?)
Key resources	RRUP platform + brand; the lean UK pod (Pack 13)
Key partners	RRUP (parent/supplier); consumer-code bodies
Cost structure	Lean pod salaries, marketing, legal, localisation (Pack 16)
Key activities	Sell, onboard, retain; localise

2. SWOT

Strengths	Weaknesses
Proven platform (600+ deployments); per-seat price wedge; cross-vertical breadth	No UK presence yet; unverified UK feature depth; deal structure unresolved
Opportunities	Threats
Fast-growing, policy-backed market; underserved small-installer segment	Payaca (incumbent), Reonic (funded entrant); policy reversal; capital asymmetry

3. Growth strategy (Ansoff)

Start in market penetration (existing product, target UK segment). Then market development (adjacent trades, regions — Pack 06 Tier 2). Hold product development (UK-specific features) as a localisation workstream with RRUP, not a from-scratch build.

4. The two gating variables ?

WHAT MUST BE RESOLVED

(1) Deal structure — equity JV vs commission/agency (Pack 14, Pack 22 Q1) — determines liability, funding and economics. (2) UK pricing — sets the wedge and the model (Pack 02, Pack 16). The plan is robust to either resolution, but cannot be finalised until both are answered by the CEO.

5. Why it can work

A proven product + a real, growing, underserved segment + a lean, low-burn entry + a free-trial motion that de-risks the buyer = a credible, fundable venture. Reonic's VC-backed entry into the same space independently validates the thesis (Pack 04).
